

Abstract5    A system for controlling a display

- A system for displaying an image captured by a sensor array, the system comprising: means for displaying an image corresponding to an output from a plurality of sensors within a first area of a sensor array; means for changing 10 the image displayed by translating the first area within the sensor array, thereby changing the plurality of sensors.

(Fig. 1A to accompany the abstract)